General Comments

Licensing staff arrived at the facility to conduct a monitoring inspection just as the children were getting off the school bus. The children were counted as they exited the bus and the attendance sheets were updated as some of the children were picked up by parents in the parking lot. The group was very active, and they came in long enough to put their bookbags away and use the washrooms and then they went outside to play. There is a paved section with nets for soccer, a basketball hoop, a storage cupboard with balls and other supplies, picnic tables, a gaga ball pit, climbing dome with pea gravel surfacing and the preschoolers fenced in play area which some of the children played in until the preschoolers have their outdoor play time. Some children had their snacks outside at the picnic tables if they wanted to.

This group really benefits from this schedule as they arrived from school with a lot of energy that needed an outlet. The children eventually came in and had a variety of activities that they could do. A puzzle was set up on a table, there is a great reading area with numerous books, a couch and a variety of tabletop activities set up such as an egg drop experiment and production items that are part of their entrepreneurship project. They are making items to sell to their parents to raise money for Junior Achievement. The room is clean, comfortable and bright with lots of tables and materials.

The parent board is complete, and the staff files are up to date. The educators are kind and patient with the children, and they know their interests well. All child guidance was positive and pro-active.
