General Comments

Licensing staff arrived at the facility to conduct a monitoring visit. The children had walked to a nearby park to play outdoors. The childcare centre had the park all to themselves and there was a variety of things to do there as well as supplies that they brought with them. There was a webbed climbing tower, two sets of swings, two climbers with slides, a balance beam, a ladybug on a cable to jump around in, picnic table and a large field where some of the children were playing baseball. The yoga mats that the children had brought with them were being used for making little camps and the children were playing games that they made up. Supervision was good and staff kept an eye on the children at all times.

The group returned to the facility for lunch and free play. The classroom is quite open and can be loud when the full group is together. Staff had some good ideas on ways that the volume of noise could be decreased by adding acoustic tiles, more fabric and soft furnishings and even tapestries/rugs or felt boards, or cloth images on the walls. Staff have also arranged the room to slow down movement in the room which helps regulate the space a bit.

The room has a lot of materials, a tented playhouse, a little store with a pretend debit machine, rug, couch and reading space with books, a sensory table with Fall items, lego and blocks etc. There is also an air hockey table that doesn't work and a cracked doll house. Both items are popular with the children so it would be nice if they were replaced instead of gotten rid of.

Ten child files and all staff files were verified and found to be complete. The parent board is up to date, and all administrative tasks are being completed. The educators are kind, patient and good-natured with the children and everyone is comfortable with each other. All child guidance was positive and pro-active with staff taking an active interest in the children and their needs.
