General Comments

A renewal inspection was conducted on November 6, 2026, during the morning and afternoon with the infant, preschool, and school-age children. Children were observed engaging in both indoor and outdoor play environments and transitioning smoothly between activities throughout the day. Daily routines were observed, including handwashing, eating snacks and lunches brought from home, and participating in program routines.

Within the indoor environment, children were engaged in a variety of experiences, including exploring chalk at the sensory table, dramatic play with cultural costumes, utilizing the nose-blowing station, reading, art activities, and open-ended painting opportunities. Documentation of children's learning was evident throughout each room.

In the outdoor environment, children were actively engaged in mud kitchen play, digging, using push toys, and sliding. Educators were observed actively supervising children and were strategically positioned throughout the learning environments to ensure appropriate oversight. Educators were also engaged in meaningful conversations, interactions, and play experiences with the children.

Purposeful planning was evident through documentation and learning stories displayed throughout the centre, including "Our Little Builder" and "Locksmith." Daily attendance records were reviewed and accurately reflected all children present at the time of inspection. Child-to-staff ratios were observed to be in compliance throughout the inspection.

All required documentation was posted on the parent information board. All staff files were reviewed, and a random review of 15 children's files was completed.
