General Comments On the day of my visit the children were just arriving from school. The educators met the first and second buses outside, took attendance and welcomed them into the gym of the Leisure centre. The gym was set up for the afterschool in a really inviting way. There were tables for arts and crafts, a drying rack for paintings, bookcases with a wide variety of supplies and games, a large Tetris game, tables for open snack, a sitting area for reading and socializing, a lego table and the other half of the room was set up for gross motor activities such as hula hoops, ball games, and floor hockey, complete with nets at each end. The gym is airy and bright and because they are the only program using the space they are allowed to stay set up, keep ongoing projects on tables and decorate the walls with the children's artwork and family pictures. The educators were really engaged with the children and interested in their ideas and projects. The children had received a new card game, and the visiting Administrator figured it out and taught them how to play. Even though it is a large gym the noise level was low because everyone seemed to have something that they wanted to do and friends to do it with. The staff used pro-active patient and kind child guidance techniques and there were no issues during my visit. For outdoor play the program uses the green space beside the building, or they walk over to Gesner Street Elementary School and use their playground. Administrative records were reviewed and the first aid kit, attendance, fire drills and weekly cleaning were all up to date. Five child files were reviewed and found to be complete.
