General Comments

Children were playing with colored sand and beads in the middle of the room on the table. Children were naming the colors and beads and the operator offered more pieces with animals and letters that they enjoyed playing with. The operator was down on the floor with the children recognizing one child's hesitation with another adult in the home. The environment is set up with a variety of resources accessible to children. The operator and I reviewed child files to ensure everything was included in files. The operator will follow up with families to ensure children's files include a completed child profile, parental consents, immunization records, and agreement with the parent book. The recommendation was made to begin keeping a reflective journal to document children's learning and plan curriculum. As well, posting photos of children will allow them to revisit their learning.
