General Comments
Upon arrival, the QAM observed that some groups were outdoors while others were indoors. In the room observed, the ASP was present and children were engaged in a variety of activities, including building with Lego and creating with playdough. A display table showcased musical instruments that had been created by the children as part of a craft experience. The educator explained that the summer program has included opportunities for community exploration, such as visits to the wharf to observe boats, walks on local trails, trips to playgrounds, and visits to the library. During observations in the other program rooms, educators were actively engaged with children and involved in activities throughout the visit. Activities observed included music experiences, making artificial snow, and pretend play. Each room contained a variety of materials and supplies that supported diverse learning opportunities. Documentation of past activities and experiences was displayed throughout the program. Outdoors, children were observed participating in water play, using the mud kitchen, playing soccer, and drawing. The outdoor environment was clean, organized, and appeared safe for children's use. A review of program documentation confirmed that fire drill records, the parent information board, staff files, and child-to-staff ratios were current, accurate, and up to date.
