General Comments

QAM Observation Summary

Upon arrival in the afternoon, the children were napping. Each child was resting in their designated cot, with appropriate spacing and a clean, well-maintained sleep environment. The indoor learning environment was organized, tidy, and equipped with a wide range of materials. Various activity areas were available, including blocks, dramatic play, an art centre, and story corners. Documentation was displayed throughout the room and was current for the month.

The outdoor environment was also observed. The space included a large sandbox with a variety of materials and a tree house structure within the sand area. A mud kitchen with ample cooking supplies and a music wall were present. A large green space provided opportunities for gross-motor play. Garden boxes were available for an upcoming project in which children will plant vegetables, observe their growth, and send the harvested produce home to families.

Educators were welcoming and demonstrated warm, positive interactions with children. They used appropriate child-guidance strategies, particularly when supporting children who were having difficulty falling asleep. The parent board, staff-to-child ratios, and fire drill records were accurate and up to date.
