General Comments

A monitoring inspection was conducted during the afternoon. Infants and preschool-aged children were observed throughout the inspection.

The infants were observed in the indoor learning environment and later during the transition to outdoor play. They were also observed participating in afternoon snack, diaper-changing routines, and engaging in play-based learning experiences with their educators.

A discussion was held with the on-site administrator regarding the use of portable playpens for sleeping infants and the associated supervision requirements. It was noted that recent legislative changes require that infants sleeping in portable playpens be under continuous supervision at all times.

The preschool children were observed participating in outdoor play within the fenced play area under the supervision of their educators.

Children were observed to be appropriately supervised at all times throughout the inspection.

Daily information sheets, fire drill records, and attendance records were reviewed and found to be complete and accurate.

One new staff file was reviewed and verified to contain all required documentation.
