General Comments

Today is the first day of March Break and school age children were involved in different activities for the morning.

Group 2 and 3 were finishing up gym games and then had snack. Educators used positive child guidance techniques when children needed re-direction or reminders. Educators got down to the children's level and spoke in a low, calm voice. Administrators were able to step in and provide children one-on-one time when needed.

Group 1 played games in the lower back room. They played "Two Truths and a Lie" and "7-Up". Educators took interest in what the children were sharing and ensured that each child had a turn and got to participate. When children became uninterested in the game, the educators switched it up and started a new game.

Detailed programming is planned for each day and groups switch to different areas of the facility to provide various opportunities for the children and to also maintain small groups. The gym, craft room, lower back room and the outdoor play space were used by both groups today in the morning. Transitions were smooth and children understood the expectations and routine. Stop signs are used as visuals so children know where to wait for the leader before proceeding to the next room. Educators used trivia and small games when children were waiting for the others to finish getting dressed for outside or waiting to enter a new space.

The entrance way was clean, organized and welcoming. There is art work posted and all required postings on the parent information board. All children have a labelled hook for their belongings and there are benches for children to use. Educators wear reflective vests when outside and walkie-talkies are used throughout the indoor and outdoor spaces.

Staff files were checked and all required documents and checks were included.
