General Comments

Upon the licensing staff's arrival, the children were engaging in free play outside. The educators were observed playing with the children and encouraging them to take a "shade break" as it was warm outside. The children were seen drinking water and resting in the shade. The child to staff ratio exceeded the minimum requirement.

As the children were outside for a while, the educators gave a verbal reminder to the children before going inside for a snack. The educators were observed doing a head count before the children picked up their belongings and went inside. At this time, the younger group came outside and started playing "hula hoop tag". The educators were observed explaining the game to the children and then proceeded to play with them.

During this time the other group of children had oranges and yogurt for their snacks. After snack, the children washed their hands before engaging in board games or puzzles. Another group of children arrived later at the facility and were encouraged to wash their hands and have a snack before joining the other group outside.

Child profiles were checked and complete. Staff files were verified and were complete. Transitions were smooth as the educators gave multiple reminders before changing activities.
