General Comments

Licensing Staff arrived at the facility to perform a Monitoring Inspection. Upon arrival the children were outside playing on the playground. The children were observed playing on the large play climber and on the swings. A small group of children found a patch of ice and were seen sliding on their bellies pretending they were penguins. The Educator announced, "Back Packs!" and all children ran to collect their bookbags and line up to go inside.

The children appear familiar with the routine. Once back inside, the children hung up their jackets, snowpants and lined up their boots. All children were observed washing their hands before exploring the classroom. The children practiced spelling their name before playing with costumes, safari animals, cars and scoop rocker chairs. The children take turns being "Helper of the Day." Today's helper eagerly announced to the class it was clean up time. The children worked well together to clean up the classroom before gathering for a quick circle time. One Educator was observed cleaning the tables in preparation for morning snack while the other Educator sang a few songs and did the calendar with the children. The children appeared to be familiar with the daily routine which made for smooth transitions throughout the morning.

Proper hand washing was observed before and after the children had morning snack. Educators were engaged with the children through the entire Monitoring visit, pushing the children on the swings, giving high fives as the children hung up their belongings after returning inside and sitting with the children as they ate snack. The posting board has all required documents, and the classroom was tidy and clean. A fire drill was completed during today's Monitoring Inspection. The children used their walking feet as they exited the school and waited for the Educator to call their name.
