| General Comments |
| This week is March Break, so the children were in attendance for the day. The attendance was lower, so the children were using the downstairs classroom. The classroom is set up with many accessible materials and learning centres. Many of the children, were sitting at the tables playing games as the educator advised licensing that today was a games day for the children. Children who did not want to play games, were moving freely between the other learning centres. Educators were observed at the tables with the children, having conversations and engaging with them. The children appeared content and the room was welcoming. Educators seem to have a good rapport with the children and redirect behaviours when necessary, however there seemed to be very little conflict in the room. Attendance records, incident reports, medication records, and potential illness forms are being used as needed and properly. All documentation required by the regulations is being filed and kept in an organized manner. |
