General Comments When licensing staff arrived, the children were outside playing. After outside, they come in to prepare for lunch. The younger infants have infant seats provided at the table while older infants sit on the small chairs. Children are given their lunch on individual plates with utensils along with their drink. Children are provided encouragement to eat and offered additional servings. After children are done, one educator begins changing children and washing their hands for naptime while the other educator asks if children are done and ready for nap while cleaning up the table and floor. The nap room has installed large cabinets on the wall instead of the previous cabinets which frees up space. The educator mentioned a cleanup is needed under the cabinets as there are extra materials being stored. Three cots are set up in the nap room in addition to the three cribs and one educator remains in the room throughout naptime. Documentation was evident throughout each infant room with an updated visual schedule posted in the older infant's space. Holiday-themed activities were available, and resources are accessible for children on low shelves and in baskets. A recommendation is made to ensure children's photos and names are located in several areas of the room to promote belonging and make connections to print literacy.
