General Comments

Licensing staff arrived at the licensed facility to conduct the yearly license renewal inspection.

The children arrived off the bus and chose a table to sit at. Some children went to the craft table to make a leaf craft using multiple shades of green construction paper, and tape. Another small group of children went to play with the soft, plush furniture while another small group of children played with the doll house and accessories.

All educator and child files were complete with the required documentation.

Licensing staff observed positive child guidance techniques used by the educators throughout the inspection.

Approximately 45 minutes after children arrived at the licensed facility, small groups gathered in the cubby area to put on their outdoor clothing to get ready to go outside to play until they got picked up.

The children could freely roam around the classrooms/activities depending on their interests. If the children were not doing what was asked of them, the educators were heard gently guiding children when needed.

While outside, a group of children went sliding on the side hill while another group of children played with the snow with shovels and PVC pipes.

Child-to-staff ratios were maintained throughout the license renewal inspection.

Licensing staff recommends the licensed facility for their renewal of license.
