General Comments
Quality Assurance Monitor conducted inspection of facility. Ratios were good and child guidance practices were positive during the inspection. Children's indoor play area is well provisioned with a variety of materials and equipment. All children were engaged with their peers or an educator. An invitation for learning was presented to the children: a stem activity that another child had previously expressed an interest in. A group of children remained engaged in that activity for a long period of time.
