General Comments

When I arrived, the children had just come out of school and were already outside. They started with a directed activity. The children were having a difficult time focusing and the educators had to redirect them often and request their attention. I would recommend that the children be provided with free time and time to burn some energy when they come out of school before jumping into a directed activity considering they have been sitting for a long period of the during school hours. There should also be some flexibility around the activities in the curriculum and ensure staff understand that those activities can be alternated and changed to accommodate the needs of the children and the location/environment. For example, today the activity was with glue and this might not have been the best activity for an outdoor environment.

Following the activity, the children played soccer, ran around and played with the cones.

This location has space in the gym and inside the library. Both rooms were observed, and everything looks safe.

The staff is polite, respectful, attentive, and engaged with the children. Lots of positive child guidance such as encouragements and gentle reminders. When redirection was required it was done in a respectful manner.

Everything is in compliance I recommend for renewal.
