General Comments Upon licensing staff's arrival for the annual renewal inspection, the after-school program was observed operating in the Park Street School gymnasium. Children were engaged in various physical activities, including playing with balls, baseballs, and large Tetris-style building blocks, in one half of the gym. Meanwhile, an educator was setting up the other half with tables and chairs, books, LEGO, blocks, gears, a resting area, a play kitchen, and a craft corner. Once the setup was complete, the educator informed the group that they could choose to move to the newly arranged area or have their snack. Children were observed engaging in a variety of activities, such as building with LEGO, reading, participating in arts and crafts and making bookmarks, and resting. Educators were actively involved with the children; for example, one educator assisted a child who requested help building a tower. When parents arrived, they rang the doorbell outside the school and were then let in by an educator. Attendance sheets were filed out for arrival and departure time. All forms and checklist were verified. The parent board was up to date. Staff and child files were completed. Only positive child guidance was observed throughout the visit. Licensing staff recommends the program for renewal.
