General Comments

Children were getting ready to go outside when I arrived. There were a variety of activities they participated in. one in particular was the mud kitchen, in which a group was making "hot chocolate for 300 people". A small climbing wall and wooden boat structure have been added to the outdoor space since the last visit. The educators encourage the children to be independent and problem solve at a developmentally appropriate level. Resources are accessible to the children in each room and soft spaces are provided for quiet time or reading. Materials are labelled in various languages throughout the rooms to represent the diverse cultures in the facility. Staff and children files were reviewed. All contained the required documents. The educators are kind and patient with the children.
