General Comments

I was logged in and screened upon my arrival. The center is following COVID guidelines well. During my visit, some of the preschool children were napping while others were doing quiet activities in the other room. As the napping children awoke, they were brought to the main room to participate in activities. The school age children arrived to their classroom after their classes were over. There are a good variety of materials provided for the children in the rooms. The educators evidently planned activities and seemed well prepared to implement these activities. It appears they put a lot of work into their programs. Children's work and activities are well documented in learning stories, displayed art, and in pictures on the walls. The preschool children were planting plants today and the after school children were working on painting flower pots and mason jars. I noted that the educators displayed lots of positive guidance techniques and related well with the children. The children seemed comfortable with them.

I checked all staff files and all necessary documentation and checks are included. I also looked at the postings and all documents required by regulation are present. The program appears to be running very well.
