General Comments

A renewal inspection occurred today. Children were engaged in various invitations in the learning environment. Materials and props were displayed at the children's level and can be independently accessed. Materials were reflective in children's current interests, curiosities and passions. Natural, familiar and real-life materials were reflective of children's home environments. Multiple dramatic play areas were set up which displayed a "mini school", "kitchen" and "dress up". Children were engaged in a game of ping pong and also were playing basketball.

Daily routine was posted. Routine was flexible, yet predictable and consistent.

Only one educator in the environment due to low number of children. Educator was observed listening to children, giving them time to think and express what they are feeling.

All staff files were verified and complete. A random review of children's files were observed and also complete.
