General Comments

During the monitoring inspection today the children were observed engaged in a variety of activities.

There are numerous interest for the children to engage with: Blocks, dramatic play, books, art, and science.

A loving, nurturing environment was observed and the children appeared happy and content.

Outside play was not observed during visit due to extreme cold temperatures. However, it is evident from documentation posted that the children do participate in outside play in the fenced in area as well as on outings to the library and nearby park.

Discussed professional development "Documentation" that Kim has participated in and "webinar's" that are available for professional development.
