General Comments

The inspector is on site in the afternoon to conduct a renewal inspection. The inspector observes afternoon snack, a craft activity, and outdoor play.

Upon arrival, the inspector is informed that the administrator is absent. Throughout the inspection, information requested by the inspector regarding the operation of the daycare is provided by various staff members.

During the verification of the bulletin board, the inspector notes that a designated administrator is identified. The inspector then speaks with the designated administrator regarding the operation of the daycare. In response to the inspector's questions, the designated administrator indicates that she is unsure and that the administrator would have that information.

A discussion is held with staff members regarding the new requirements for administrators. The inspector explains that, under the new legislation, an administrator or designated person must be present during operating hours for every group of twenty educators and discusses the intention behind this new requirement.

The staff-to-child ratio is maintained throughout the inspection.
