General Comments
On the afternoon of the monitoring inspection, the two groups were participating in activities before having time in the gym, pool, and outdoor playground. The Irving Room educators had acquired some large boxes for the children to make their own creations. Children worked in groups and had access to a variety of materials- tape, scissors, paints, beads, ribbon and markers. Tanks, houses, a movie theatre and a cat cafe were some of the designs. The RBC Room educator planned a nature walk for the group. Children walked the perimeter of the outdoor playground, and the educator shared her knowledge of trees with the group. Paper bags were provided for each child so they could collect leaves to use for a craft. While transitioning through the building and outdoors, the educator conducted numerous headcounts and ensured children walked safely in pairs and in a line. Both rooms had organized materials for the children including Lego, art materials and books. The older afterschool children had graphic novels and the younger group had a large variety of children's books. Materials and toys were in good condition and the rooms were clean. Children's belongings were organized on their hooks. Child and staff files were checked. All necessary documents were included and in order.
