General Comments

The children in each room spent time outside this afternoon, free play within each room, and time to visit the gym or play climber. The groups usually go to the pool on Wednesday afternoon, but the pool wasn't available today, so they spent extra time in the classroom or in the gym.

Resources are accessible throughout the room representing the curriculum areas. A prompt was posted on the whiteboard in one room asking about plans for Valentine's Day. Classroom, bus and mini stick rules have been agreed on by children and educators and posted on the walls. A weekly activity plan was posted and resources set up around the room to support it.

A reminder was given to conduct monthly fire drills as one room had completed them monthly and the other had not. Postings were up in each room and are going to be updated as some items are dated.

Children's artifacts and artwork are posted throughout the rooms valuing their creativity. A birthday wall with photos and several other areas with photos document the learning.

Educators gave several reminders for transitions and used respectful language to remind children to use resources appropriately and to listen to friends. The environment in each space respected children's agency and supported peer play and interests.
