General Comments
On the afternoon of the monitoring inspection, children had numerous centres to choose from. Educators continue to use their "Pick a Centre" system where all the centres are listed on the wall and each child has their name on a label. Educators put the child's name in the corresponding centre that they wish to play at. Some of the favorite choices were pixel art, quiet and cozy corner with books and fidgets, drawing and dress-up. Children had the option to use one room for their pretend superhero play and other gross motor play. The other room was set up for tabletop activities and art. Educators remained engaged with children taking interest in their art creations and imaginative play. Both educators were patient when the noise level went up and children wanted to engage in superhero play. Reminders were given to children in a kind and gentle way. Children had snack at 3 o'clock and were reminded that they could return to their centres after snack. Art creations that were not finished were placed to the side. Today's snack was tortilla chips, shredded cheese, salsa and sour cream. Oranges were also served. Both educators moved from table to table offering children the different snack choices.
