General Comments

Licensing staff arrived at the licensed facility while the children were eating their morning snack. The snack was waffles, bananas and milk. After the children finished their snack they washed up and began a painting activity. During the painting activity, licensing staff heard lots of open-ended questions, asked by the operator, to the children as they created their masterpieces. Licensing staff heard the children tell the operator that they were creating the following: "a butterfly", "clouds", "a beach", "it's rain", "I'm writing ABC's."

The operator has a very gentle and calming way with the children. Licensing staff observed the children laughing and sharing what they were creating throughout the morning while licensing staff was conducting the licensing inspection visit.

At lunch time, the children washed up and had their lunch that was provided by their parents/guardians.

The operator showed licensing staff the children's scrap books that were filled with the children's creations. The operator relayed to licensing staff that she sends a binder full of documentation illustrating learning home for the children to share with their parents/guardians. This is a fantastic way for the children to communicate with their parents/guardians about their day and a wonderful way for the children to re-visit the children's learning experiences.
