General Comments

A Monitoring Inspection was completed this morning. Children were observed sitting at a table, eating their morning snack, while being read to. Children were observed sitting and listening to the story, and asking questions, and making comments along the way. Children were observed washing their hands after snack. A group of children were observed building with Lego, another small group were observed building train tracks, while others were observed drawing pictures. The facility had several well-defined learning / play areas, and questions were observed in each of these areas - Which color lights do you like best? What animal made this track? Positive child guidance techniques were observed - gentle reminders, offering choices, redirecting negative energy, positive language, and respecting the children's feelings. Several forms of documentation were observed throughout the facility - children's artwork, photos, postcards, learning stories, etc.
