General Comments

Licensing staff arrived at the facility for a monitoring inspection at 11am. Upon arriving the children were playing outside in the playground. The educators were observed supervising the children as they played. The children had access to mud kitchen items, a large sandbox with digging accessories. Some children were observed climbing on the climbing structure while others played with sport equipment such as balls.

The children had their water bottles outside; daily attendance records and first aid bags were also present outside with the children. Once it was time to transition, the educators prompted the children to clean up their free play activities before going inside for lunch. The children were observed cleaning up and the educators were heard praising the children. Once done, the children were asked to line up near the entrance and find a walking partner. A head count was done to ensure that all the children were present. The transition to the indoor environment was smooth.

The children were observed entering the classroom, properly storing their personal belongings on their hooks before being prompted to wash their hands for lunch. The educators were observed sanitizing the lunch tables and laying out the children's lunch boxes. Each table was heard having light conversation during the meal with the educators. As the children finished eating, the educators encouraged them to store their lunch boxes and wash their hands. The children then engaged in free play activities such as building Legos and playing with dolls. An educator was observed preparing a group activity of "20 questions". The educators invited the children to gather on a large carpet to play the game. Please ensure that the children have a choice to engage in the group activity and are not obligated to participate.

After playing the "20 questions" game, the children were encouraged to use the washroom and then re-apply sunscreen before going outside to play in the playground. The children were observed applying sunscreen and the educators offered help. Once completed, everyone lined up at the door, a head count was done and the educators and children headed to the playground.
