General Comments

Licensing staff arrived at the licensed facility to conduct the annual licence renewal inspection. Upon arrival, children were observed playing outdoors in the wooded area of the outdoor learning environment. Children were actively engaged in a variety of play experiences, including collecting sticks, climbing and navigating the natural terrain, and participating in dramatic play scenarios such as pretending to hunt and placing their peers in "jail." The children were also exploring and comparing sticks of various sizes, demonstrating curiosity and engagement with the natural environment.

Following their outdoor play experience, the children transitioned indoors where they removed their wet outdoor clothing and footwear and washed their hands in preparation for lunch. The children sat together at a wooden picnic table in the indoor play environment and were appropriately supervised throughout the mealtime. After finishing lunch, the children independently selected books and transitioned to their cots for quiet time and rest. Licensing staff observed the operator providing responsive care and support to an enrolled infant by comforting the child until they were able to fall asleep.

The indoor play environment was warm, inviting, and thoughtfully arranged. Documentation of the children's learning experiences was displayed throughout the environment, providing opportunities for children to revisit and reflect on their experiences. Natural elements were incorporated throughout the space, including vines suspended from the ceiling and natural wood accents, creating a cozy and aesthetically pleasing learning environment.

Children spent the majority of the morning outdoors before returning inside for an early lunch and rest period. Distinct learning centres were available throughout the indoor play space, and there was an appropriate variety and quantity of play materials accessible to support children's interests and engagement in play.

Throughout the inspection, the operator interacted with children in a calm, kind, and respectful manner. The operator encouraged children to share with their peers and supported positive social interactions among the group.

General Comments
Based on observations made during the inspection, licensing staff recommends the facility for license renewal.
