General Comments

Licensing staff arrived in the morning to conduct a monitoring visit. Upon arrival the children were having snack, as they finished, they washed hands and were diapered, went to the bathroom and then had free play. The classroom is bright and clean with an abundance of materials and learning invitations for the children. They have a playhouse, an easel with acrylic board to write on, a kitchen set and accessories, dress up toys and lego, cars, musical instruments, and new large block shaped mats that they can climb on and slide down. The operator has a learning story about making music and some of the children's artwork up on the walls.

After the free play everyone got ready to do outside to walk the trail nearby. The operator played the clean-up song, and the transition went calmly and smoothly. The youngest children went in the wagon and the two older preschoolers walked and ran on the trail. The operator brought the first aid kit, the children's water and more snacks which were shared during the walk. The children like to watch the dogs in the park and today there were 4 spotted.

Everyone walked back and cleaned up for lunch and then nap. By this time the children were tired and the operator kept track of how much lunch was eaten in order to let parents know later. She also took pictures and shared them with the parents during the morning to let them know who the children's day was going.

The attendance forms, child profiles, daily information forms and all other administrative tasks were complete and up to date. The operator is patient and kind with the children, and all child guidance is positive and pro-active. The children know their daily schedule and all transitions were calm.
