General Comments
Monitoring visit performed. Administrative records were reviewed and attendance is tracked, outdoor checklist, and fire drills are practiced monthly. No illnesses or recent incidents to report. Today upon arrival children were indoors involved in a variety of activities. The educator follows children's leads and she allows for risky play opportunities with close supervision. Children had lots of room to practice cartwheels, frog leaps, building a fort, practicing mark making, and manipulating and making animal prints in the play doh - chocolate play doh. Children are talking about pets this week - cats, dogs, fish and hamsters. The operator speaks to children gently when teaching them about turn taking. She says, " now it's your turn, its (names the child) turn now, you are next'. She also gives children choices of sticker colors when documenting who has a pet at home. children counted the sticker dots for dogs and cats. Operator is engaging with children using playful conversation. She also used 'no thank you when she is redirecting behavior.
