General Comments

Licensing Staff arrived at the facility to conduct a Monitoring Inspection. As the children did not have school today, they were on site for a full day. All children were in the classroom on the main level and were engaged in a variety of activities upon arrival. A group of children were playing musical chairs while one Educator managed the music, pausing it throughout the game and engaging in conversation with the children. Other children were observed playing with dolls and a dollhouse, using action figures, and building forts.

The indoor environment offered a wide variety of play materials. Bins were labelled, and materials were observed to be in good condition. The Educator announced that the group would have one final round of musical chairs before cleaning up to go outside. Several children joined in for the last game. Once the game was finished, the Educators stacked the chairs to the side, and the children began cleaning up. The children were reminded to use the washroom and change into their outdoor shoes before lining up to go outside. Educators were heard communicating to maintain the required staff-to-child ratio, and a head count was observed before exiting the building.

The outdoor environment also offered a variety of play materials and activities. Some children played soccer while others explored the climbing domes, created in the sandbox, and used chalk on the pavement. Large wooden blocks and boxes were available for imaginative play, with children using them to create camps, bonfires, and forts.

Only positive child guidance was observed throughout the inspection. A conversation was had on site about the need to complete an outdoor cleanup and remove any broken toys, including balls, safety glasses, and trucks.
