General Comments A Monitoring Inspection occurred February 12, 2025. Children were observed engaging in both indoor and outdoor free play. Educators noted that children are currently very interested in snow play, both indoors and outdoors. Activities include being active outside, freezing balloons with water to create ice gems, exploring wood in a sensory tray, setting up a grocery marketplace with upcycled materials, and using art easels for painting during free play. Educators have also incorporated their own interests into documentation, further enriching the learning environment. Outdoors, educators are actively participating in children's activities. Outdoor play takes place for at least one hour in each four-hour block of time when the majority of children are present, weather permitting. The facility has a clearly visible and prominent location for posting the license, current inspection and monitoring reports, and any orders for compliance. The daily routine and evacuation procedures are also posted in an accessible location. The room is set up in an inviting manner, with materials arranged to encourage play and engagement. Ideas from learning stories and web explorations are reflected in the art area, library, kitchen, and dramatic play spaces. Books have been carefully selected to align with the children's interests. Several well-defined learning centers, including building, reading, dramatic play, and science, are present throughout the space. Educators make intentional efforts to extend the curriculum outdoors and incorporate elements of the natural world into the classroom. Learning webs have been created with the children and expanded upon by educators, fostering deeper exploration and engagement.
