General Comments

A Monitoring Inspection was completed this afternoon. Upon arrival, the K-2 children were observed playing outside. Children were observed swinging on the hammock and playing soccer. Several painted rocks were observed. Educator stated that the children had previously painted these rocks, and that the rocks would eventually be placed in and around their garden. Educators were observed giving the children reminders and countdowns, for upcoming transitions. The K-2 children were observed lining up to go inside, shortly before the grade 3-5's arrival. All children were observed washing their hands upon entering the building. While inside, the K-5 children were observed eating their snacks and taking part in free play - coloring, drawing, building with Lego, and painting. Educators stated that the children are presently interested in Pokémon, Beyblades, and Arts & Crafts. Several forms of documentation were observed. New photo albums were observed, and they contained photos of the children, taking part in activities. It is recommended that more forms of documentation be added to the school aged program. Several well-defined centers were observed - cozy area with couches and rugs, a reading area which included a cereal box archway, a building area which included a large homemade phonebooth, a games area, and a well-stocked arts and crafts area. There was also a science / math center. Positive child guidance techniques were observed - educator preparing activities that matched the children's interests, educators conversing with the children, and educators providing appropriate supervision.
