General Comments

QAM observed children exiting the bus and immediately engaging in outdoor play. Children participated in various gross-motor activities, including skipping, playing with balls, rolling down the grassy hill, and playing tag. The educator provided positive child guidance by redirecting children to remain within their designated play area and supporting safe play practices.

QAM also observed the indoor environment. Invitations for craft activities and Magna-Tile exploration were set up to promote creativity, fine-motor development, and open-ended learning.
