General Comments

The children were playing at the school playground. The playground offers lots of opportunities for group and individual play. Children were engaged in a game with one educator while others were playing ball, swinging, climbing on the structures, and exploring. Educators were observed engaged in discussions with children and giving reminders of playground rules. They spoke respectfully to children and offered comfort and a band aid, when needed.

Educators gave reminders for water breaks and announced a bathroom break for anyone that needed it regularly. A light rain in the middle of play was embraced by the educators and children were asked if they wanted to stay out to a resounding yes. The program spent several hours at the playground today and visit a different park or playground each day of the week during the summer months.

Complete files with emergency contacts and consents are kept electronically. A reminder that children require two emergency contacts, in addition to parents and updated Medicare information. Incident reports and health plans have been included in child files.
