General Comments Licensing staff Dominique Boudreau and Susan Dickeson arrived at the facility for a Monitoring Inspection. The children and educators were at the school playground. The educators brought the attendance sheet and a first aid kit. The children were observed playing in the climbing structure, on the swings, playing Four Squares, and some were engaged in imaginary play. The educators were engaging in conversation with the children and playing with them. Some children sat at the tables to have snack with an educator. The children started gathering their belongings to return to the centre. They lined up and an educator was observed doing a head count. During the walk back, the educators were spaced out and ensuring safety while crossing the road. Upon arrival at the centre, the children took their boots and jackets off, washed their hands, and got their climbing shoes on. A group of children sat at the table and played with melting beads. The other children were observed reading books, having a snack, and climbing. The educators helped the children to climb and gave them tips on how to fall safely. The educators greeted the parents as they arrived and updated the attendance sheet. Ratio was more than met. The educators were attentive to the children and were observed talking kindly to them, redirecting, and making compromises when needed. Approximately 7 child files were checked and found to be complete. One file was missing the Medicare information. Please ensure this is received. Only positive child guidance was observed.
