General Comments

Licensing Staff arrived at Sara's Sprouts to conduct the Renewal Inspection. Each child had their own labelled hook in the entrance for bookbags, jackets, and other personal belongings. Upon entering the classroom, one child was observed painting a pumpkin, while the other children had finished their pumpkins and were preparing for morning snack.

Artwork and learning stories were displayed throughout the classroom. The indoor environment was organized and offered a variety of play materials stored in labelled bins and easily accessible to the children. After snack, the children gathered around a table to play with modelling clay. A timer was set to give the children a reminder before cleanup and the transition outdoors.

The Operator had recently purchased mittens for the children, which they wore during outdoor play. While outside, some children were observed using wooden boards and stumps to create their own obstacle course. The Operator recognized the children's needs and brought the group back inside a little earlier than usual.

Once indoors, the children returned to playing with modelling clay and explored accessories such as play scissors, rolling pins, and toy animals. Handwashing was then observed before the children sat together for lunch. As the children finished eating, the Operator began transitioning the infants to their designated nap space.

Staff and child files were reviewed and contained all required documentation. Throughout the Renewal Inspection, only positive child guidance was observed. The Operator was patient and kind with the children, providing support and gentle reminders when needed.

Licensing Staff recommends for Renewal.
