General Comments
The Quality Assurance Monitor was on site to conduct the renewal inspection. Child-to-staff ratios were maintained throughout the visit. During the inspection, the Quality Assurance Monitor observed various activities, including children painting sculptures for the DIY studio, engaging in free indoor play, listening to stories read by the educator, and participating in crafts using provided materials. The Quality Assurance Monitor also observed lunchtime routines and nap time. A discussion took place between the Quality Assurance Monitor and the operator regarding the transition from lunch to nap time. The Quality Assurance Monitor noted that the transition appeared somewhat chaotic, particularly during the setup for nap time following lunch. It was suggested that preparing the beds prior to lunch could help streamline the process and create a calmer transition period.
