General Comments

The operator and children were outside playing in a sprinkler and water table this morning. The older child enjoyed running through the sprinkler and filling water guns to spray others. The two younger children were playing at the water table with dinosaurs and accessories while shaded with an umbrella. The operator gave reminders to the children when they needed space from others or when they expressed displeasure from another child's actions. She engaged with the children and encouraged them to try new activities. The children went back in the house before lunch with time for changes and hand washing. The children sit at the table in highchairs or on the kitchen chairs for lunch. The living room has been moved around to provide a more open space for children to play, with the curriculum areas reflected throughout the space.
