General Comments

A renewal inspection was conducted during both the morning and afternoon periods of the license.

During the inspection, infants and preschool-aged children were observed participating in activities within both their indoor and outdoor learning environments. School-age children were observed in their outdoor classroom at the end of the school day.

In the infant rooms, children were engaged in a variety of learning experiences, including nature walks, observing a woodpecker, exploring leaves, looking for squirrels, and building with magnetic tiles. Educators were also observed singing songs with and to the children during transitions, supporting engagement and positive routines.

In the two-year-old room, children participated in nature walks, constructed structures with magnetic tiles, explored animal sounds, and engaged in nature-based art experiences using paint, paintbrushes, pom-poms, leaves, and paper. Children were observed playing in the fenced outdoor play area and exploring the nature trails located throughout the campus.

In the school-age program, children were observed playing ball hockey with their peers and educators, as well as participating in art activities. Books and magnetic tiles were readily accessible, providing additional opportunities for learning and engagement.

The childcare facility is currently not meeting the requirement that a minimum of 50% of educators hold an Early Childhood Education (ECE) or equivalent qualification. However, the operator is actively engaged in recruitment efforts to address this staffing requirement and achieve compliance.

Licensing recommends that additional mulch be added beneath the two circular swings and hammocks located in the school-age outdoor classrooms, as exposed rocks and tree roots were observed in these areas.

Throughout the inspection, educators were observed responding appropriately to the needs of the children in
