General Comments
Children's interests and learning are well documented throughout the learning environments; learning stories, webs, plans, photos, children's print and art work are displayed in the environment, added to a classroom binder and included in children's learning portfolios. Current interest topics are evident in the materials available for children in classroom interest centers and in invitations thoughtfully prepared and offered to the children. Educators are sharing children's learning with families by providing copies of documentation to them. This is a great way to value the activities and learning of individual children, make connections with families and encourage families to discuss with their children what they are learning and doing while in care. Educators were observed to engage with children at their level, speaking positively and encouraging their efforts and play. Due to COVID-19, facility is not currently providing food services.
