General Comments

A renewal inspection was conducted in all licensed rooms at the childcare facility.

Licensing observed children in the infant room actively engaged in a variety of sensory experiences. Documentation and photographs displayed throughout the environment depicted children participating in activities such as outdoor painting, riding toy cars in the sand, and exploring materials including glue and paper.

Licensing observed samples of children's open-ended artwork displayed in each program room, reflecting the children's creativity and learning experiences.

Documentation and learning stories displayed throughout the learning environments highlighted children's participation in a range of meaningful activities, including outdoor play, exploration of moon sand in a tuff tray, banana bread preparation, sandbox play, leaf collection, dramatic play in a beauty salon, and butterfly creation activities.

Licensing observed that all learning environments were equipped with an adequate quantity and variety of learning materials to support the number and developmental needs of the children in attendance. Clearly defined interest centres were established throughout the rooms and were arranged to encourage children's engagement, exploration, and independent play.

Licensing discussed outdoor play practices with educators and administrators, specifically regarding children's participation in outdoor activities during less favorable weather conditions. Licensing observed that children were appropriately dressed for outdoor play and were provided opportunities to go outside despite foggy and rainy conditions.

A discussion also occurred regarding diaper-changing procedures within the 4-year-old room. It was noted that a change mat may be utilized for this purpose and should be stored appropriately when not in use. Licensing recommended that the mat be hung on the back of the washroom door adjacent to the 4-year-old room.

General Comments
Throughout the renewal inspection, Licensing observed educators consistently implementing positive child guidance practices during their interactions with children. The facility is recommended for license renewal, pending the recommendation from the Fire.
