General Comments QAM arrived in the morning and observed the Ladybug and Critter rooms in the outdoor learning environment. The outdoor area contained a variety of materials and equipment, including tires, a playhouse, books, blocks, chalk, and a climbing wall. An educator in the Ladybug room informed QAM that several children were new to the room. The educators were supporting these children with the transition from being at home with their families to attending the facility. The educator also shared that several children speak different languages and that educators are working on documentation to incorporate and represent these languages within the learning environment. The Critter group was observed transitioning from the outdoor area to inside the facility. Educators encouraged the children to participate in cleaning up the outdoor materials before lining up. Children were acknowledged when they were lined up and ready to enter the facility, and their names were called when it was time to go inside. An educator sang a roll-call song to support children's engagement during the transition. The Butterfly group was observed inside the facility. Children engaged in pretend play with farmhouses and animals, while an educator read books with a group of children. Educators greeted children upon arrival and were observed engaging with the children throughout the observation. The parent board, fire drill records, and staff files were reviewed and found to be up to date. Child-to-staff ratios were observed to be appropriate.
