General Comments Renewal inspection completed today. The preschool room has had an update to the room arrangement and it looks great! Valuing the children's learning environment demonstrates care and respect for purposeful exploration and rich opportunities. The children are provided with a variety of choices for play within the interest centers. The bubble group has been exploring nutrition as well as the significance of the poppy for Remembrance Day. The children were observed to be familiar with the routine of the day and transitioned from one activity to the next without difficulty. The educators engaged in play with the children during outside time and they were observed to be consistently attentive to the needs of individual children. The school age children have been exploring the topic of teeth and incorporating activities and discussions based on this interest. Documentation in the environment supports the children's learning and demonstrates their current interests. Different forms of documentation are evident. School age room: How could books be displayed to be more inviting to the children?
