General Comments

A renewal inspection was conducted today. Only the children in the preschool room were observed. The school-age children, due to low numbers, joined the children on the other school-age license.

The children were observed in inside play. The children and the educators had created haunted houses for Halloween utilizing the play fire station as well as boxes. The children, even though it is past Halloween, were still interested so the educators have let this interest continue.

The children were observed playing with Jenga blocks that they and the educators have drawn on and attached stickers to them creating characters, and objects.

The educators were observed speaking kindly and respectfully to the children and engaged in their learning and play. The children appeared happy and content in their environment and with their educators.
