5. Highchairs in baby rest areas must be removed
6. Items or materials are to not be stored in cribs

General Comments

Educators in each room are engaged with the children. They play, talk and interact with them at their levels. Redirection was used at time when a child was having a hard time self-regulating his emotions. The educator distracted the child and moved their attention towards another activity.

Licensing staff could observe the interest of both the educators and the children with regards to the curriculum. Facility is using learning stories, webbing, pictures, crafts, charts and much more to demonstrate what the children are learning.

Child guidance is kind, patient and educators could be seen comforting children when they were upset.
