General Comments Licensing staff arrived at the licensed facility to conduct the annual license renewal inspection. The school-aged children were engaging in free play activities when licensing staff first arrived at the centre. After free play activities, one group of children went to the indoor play climber onsite for gross motor play while the second group of children went to the gym. Later that afternoon, one group of children went to the pool while the second group of children went outside. When the group of children went to the swimming pool, reduced child-to-staff ratios were in effect. Child-to-staff ratios were in compliance according to the Early Childhood Services Act throughout the inspection. The educators, in both classrooms, were observed interacting with the children using positive child guidance strategies. Throughout the inspection, licensing staff saw the educators counting the children many times, during transitions, while playing in the play climber and while at the pool. Licensing staff recommends the facility for renewal of license.
