General Comments
On the afternoon of my visit I reviewed the children's files. All were in proper order. The children were outside enjoying a variety of activities from hockey, playing on the circling structure to playing with sticks and pool noodles. The children all seemed happy and content with the activities. The educators were working and communicating well together making sure the proper number of children were in attendance. I would suggest the educators have a larger board to keep track of the children. It is a busy time of day with the afterschool children arriving and leaving.
