General Comments

Children were in the outdoor play space during the monitoring visit. They were engaged in a variety of activities which included playing in the water sprinkler, making bracelets at the picnic table, cooking cakes at the mud kitchen, listening to music under the gazebo, playing basketball, chasing bubbles from the bubble machine, and digging in the dirt looking for worms and bugs. The educators were observed walking around to each group of children talking with them and participating in the various activities that the children were involved in. The educators were diligent in keeping the track of the number of children in attendance; Signing them out as they left at the end of the day and removing the children's names off the magnetic board so there was a quick visual of the number of children present. The facility seemed to be running smoothly during the visit.
